Case Study on Project-Based Learning Course – Design Thinking

Prepared by

Dr. MAYA M. CHARDE

Synopsis/Abstract:

Design thinking is an approach which focuses on Human-Centric problems to provide innovative solutions. It focuses mainly on desirability, feasibility and viability. Before introducing PBL through this course learners were facing some problems. They were not able to empathize the users, unable to think creatively, innovatively and precisely, unaware about the customer choices, needs, satisfactions, types and their behavior, unaware about the market survey, trends and sustainability etc.

Considering the learners needs and for their continual improvement we at MITAOE, Alandi pune being an Autonomous Institute introduced this course in 2016 for F.Y. B.TECH. Students. Only three faculties were trained and visited the GARDI University and some of our sister institutes for attending the trainings for course delivery and for designing the curriculum. Initially the faculties were little bit worried about the course delivery as this was newly introduced and also don't have an idea about how the learners will respond to this PBL teaching. So to explain about the need and necessity of PBL in DT during orientation and also conducted the survey.

1. Introduction

PBL Journey – for the Case Study

- How it started:

- Design thinking is an innovative continuous quality improvement solution oriented methodology. As per need and necessity of current era while we were visiting various national / international universities and reputed industries we came to know that Design Thinking is playing a very significant role in quality improvement of the same.
- With outcome of this methodology industries like Infosys and universities like Stanford, Olin etc. are progressing rapidly. They are very much satisfied with the result of this methodology while implementing at their end.
- Being a reputed institute, we have decided to accept and implement this methodology in our curriculum as a PBL course as Design Thinking in view of surviving in a competitive educational world and to fulfill the future and existing needs of an Industrial sector.

- What were drivers/reasons:

- Drivers:
- To implement the course effectively a team of creative thinkers people were identified / built.

- To deliver the PBL the curriculum of the course Design Thinking has been framed by taking the guidance from various universities and Industrial experts.
- To train the Faculties/Instructors/Staffs various training programs like IUCEE, Online Teaching tools, In-house trainings, Training by GARDI University, Industrial trainings, Faculty exchange program, MOU with Foreign universities, Training at sister institutes, Staff development programs etc. were arranged /organized/conducted.
- To deliver the course effectively Design thinking laboratory has been developed with modern equipment / machineries / setups etc.
- Reasons to implement PBL in DT :
- To enhance the problem identification and problem solving skills of the instructor as well as learners.
- To imbibe project based learning and to inculcate the critical problem solving skills of the learners.
- To give the best solution for user centric problems through PBL.
- To bridge the gap between the Academics and Industrial revolution with respect to Education and Industry 4.0 concept.
- What were challenges
From learner's point of view:
Some of the Challenges while identifying the problem as an individual:
 - To identify and finalize the domain.
 - To have a keen observation capability to identify the top 10 activities of the domain.
 - To identify the problems/challenges of the user while performing the activities.
 - To finalize the user for whom solution need to be addressed.Some of the Challenges while giving the solution to identified problem as a group:
 - To work in a group with coordination and synchronization was a big challenge.
 - To check whether all the members from group are working in full capabilities and with 100% involvement and dedications or not.
 - To implement the idea / solution in optimum / stipulated time, with best utilization of all the available resources and optimum cost.From instructor's point of view:
Some of the challenges are:
 - To identify the type of learners especially weaker learners.
 - To form the groups of learners for execution and completion of a project.
 - To keep the record of an every learners.
 - To give the training for soft skills to learners.
 - To make the learners social competence for best use of Design thinking methodology with PBL.
- Lessons Learned
 Transform the learners by giving the platform as a course DT is itself is a good opportunity to develop their social skills, soft skills, and technical skills.
Following are some lessons which we have learned and implemented to overcome the various challenges:
 - Formation of groups on the basis of learner's area of interest and combination of learners from different streams so that the variety of thinkers/learners will shape up their personality with best solutions.

- Conducted the various activities like Visual Thinking, Think - Pair - Share along with various teaching styles so that the learners will be able to know everyone from their group to work together on common domain effectively and instructors will also be able to involve the learners effectively.
- Explaining the case studies as an example for identifying the activities/problems/challenges etc. of the domain.
- Assigning graded activity to an individual along with group activity so that they will be more attentive and also involve in each activity/task/assignments of their groups.
- Explaining the importance of desirability, feasibility and viability through some examples / case studies so that the learners will try their level best to get best solution.
- Instructing learners to keep the evidences/ records of each and every activity they performed while doing the market survey/customer's feedback/interaction with users etc.

After the successful implementation of PBL in DT the concept and need of PBL has been identified and implemented for various courses like Prototyping, Mini / Minor / Major projects and in every course wherever is applicable depending on its suitability.

2. Current Status

Currently, the enhanced PBL is introduced in F. Y. B Tech course (Design Thinking) from 2020-21. About 311 students are involved in the PBL related activities / course.

Electrical & Electronics Engineering - Problem Based Learning

Prabha S. Kasliwal, Mandar Bhalekar, Satish Kabra

Synopsis/Abstract:

The fundamental objective of the course Electrical and Electronics offered in FY BTech is to give an overall exposure of the Electricity generation, transmission and distribution further scope is to introduce circuit board design found in hybrid electric vehicles, consumer electronics equipment. Our Institute is autonomous and this course was introduced in the academic year 2016-17. This subject has evolved over the time from project based learning(PBL) experimented in 2018-19 to problem based learning in 2020-21.

It helps students to explore analog and digital systems design required for telecommunication, computers hardware and embedded applications. This subject introduces sensors, transducers and actuators which are basic building blocks for robotics and automation. It also gives a complete overview of measuring and data acquisition system design. At present clean energy generation is a simple theme towards good living. Fundamental knowledge of 1-ph. AC and 3-Ph. AC supply is must for all budding engineers and electrical motors required for domestic & Industrial application which must be selected as per application point of view.

1. Introduction

PBL Journey – for the Case Study

We were keen on bringing a Sustainable development goal(SDG) in the curriculum. Students were aware of the green energy generation. We felt that this is the need of the hour to understand the calculations for solar power generation as per consumer's power requirement. Students are taken to visit the solar plant situated on the rooftop of the institution. Initially students were eager to read solar panel nameplate ratings. This experience gave them a clear idea of solar panel installation and connections. The activity consists of preparation of the report which includes off-grid electrical load calculations and estimate the battery and panel ratings and quantity. Consumers must know electricity energy bills details and Power factor benefits.

Automation is a buzzword for engineers. Taking this as an opportunity we introduced small projects in the start to help students develop a block diagram approach for small automation systems. The application questions in paper were designed to assess the students for their cognitive skills in this domain. Practically we asked students of batch 20-21 to identify a problem and offer a solution, design and simulate in Tinkercad. In the current scenario students developed an automatic sanitizer dispenser machine using a PIR sensor.

Thus rather than thinking of a project the students were made to observe activities in society, identify problems and then think of the ways it can be solved.

During our problem based learning journey we introduced application based question of blooms taxonomy level 6

Some of the application oriented questions from question paper

- For a 6 lit. Washing Machine, LED is used as an indicator to indicate overweight. Suggest the design using OP-AMP as comparator which is used to switch on the LED to show overweight. Explain the working with proper waveforms.
- Suggest the automation for traffic light controllers at a 4 lane junction. Describe the block diagram.
- Suggest and explain the block diagram for obstacle avoidance robots.
- In a cricket team selection panel, Four members team is the panelist. Any player will be selected only when at least three panelists cast votes in his or her favor. Design a circuit for helping team selection.
- Propose block diagram for home automation.

Drivers/reasons-

To give an exposure and significance of Sustainable development goal 2030 and its need for addressing them through classroom learning. The key factors through which we triggered the PBL were involving students in the process of active observations and identifying potential problems to be resolved. Many times students find it difficult relating and mapping academic knowledge gained to the applications found around them.

Imparting students with the values that they have to give back to society . Making students aware that privileged engineering students should offer engineering solutions for society.

Challenges-

- When we implemented project based learning in the first two academic years we observed that the project titles were getting repeated and the same projects were presented by different groups in rotation.
- Some senior students developed a business model of developing the project and giving it to students.
- Motivating the students in taking initiative
- Tuning the students' view to come out the traditional PBL mode.
- Motivating the faculty and wholehearted involvement in the process
- Online mode working prototype was difficult

Lessons Learned-

- Difficult to assess the contribution of teams for a small projects
- Not accepting project tile but involving students creatively in process of identifying problems
- Redesigning the course in online mode

2. Current Status

We received very good support and feedback from students during the journey.

Even we were not able to see the working Model but simulation and ideation actually helped

The course is going to be interesting when we conduct it in the offline mode.

In class activities and face to face discussion with guide will help in formalizing the concept of PBL in EEE subject.

Case Study on Enhanced Project-Based Learning in a Course “Prototyping”

Prepared by Vinayak B Kulkarni

Abstract:

In the quest of quality education and to fulfil stakeholder’s expectations, we have implemented project based learning in some of the courses in year 2016. A product design course “Prototyping” was one of the earliest courses to implement PBL at our institute. After conducting three rounds from year 2016 to year 2019, we have applied Enhanced PBL in year 2020-21. This case study presents brief account for course conduction with enhanced PBL. We have presented insight for different challenges faced and strategies used to solve the problem.

1. Introduction

PBL was first introduced in a year 2016 for second year engineering students of all branches in “Prototyping” (ET206) course in autonomous curriculum. This was the first time implementation of the course. Prior to this period the institute was implementing university prescribed curriculum of Savitribai Phule Pune University, Pune. In year 2016 institute has got academic autonomy and the process of new curriculum design was initiated. There was no similar multidisciplinary course in university curriculum. We have got suggestion from members of Board of studies to introduce a product design course, which will include basic skills of foundation engineering branches like Mechanical, Electronics, Computer and Civil engineering. Four faculty groups, one group for each category were formed to design proposed multidisciplinary syllabus. The course was categorized in Program Core Category within the group Skill development and projects. This is compulsory course for all seven branches of second year. The team proposed four prototyping modules for this course, Electronics, Computer, Civil and Mechanical prototyping respectively.

During period year 2016-2019 around 1700 students were completed all the four modules one by one, in round robin manner. Initially there was concern about course administration; as course was conducted by four different schools with one module each. Another concern was related to student response to this multidisciplinary, new teaching methodology. After conduction three rounds of this course for three years; we were having ample number of observations to enhance project based learning in next revision. The syllabus revision was conducted for this course in year 2020 for tenure 2019-2023 and two new courses of 02 credits were designed. The module structure is keeping structure of same. Now course is split in two courses i) Digital prototyping ET224 (Modules: Hardware & Software Prototyping) ii) Rapid Prototyping ET235 (Modules: Civil & Mechanical Prototyping) and all modules will be conducted for entire year in two semesters.

Following section presents discussion about Challenges faced aimed at Old course for Three years and first run of new modified course based on enhanced project based learning during years 2016-2019 and year 2020-21.

Based on experimentation at our institute, we will suggest providing adequate weightage for basic engineering skills and hands on experience through project. Also students must be acquainted with Design Thinking, Product design process and System life cycle functions during project based learning. Finally for most of engineering courses, must comprise hands on, skill based project to ensure Project based learning as a best practice.

6. Conclusions

It was challenging situation for us to implement project based learning in the product design course Prototyping. During this journey of implementation, we find that the creativity and interest of our students has enhanced significantly. Also, even in difficult time of corona pandemics our students have shown good performance and delivered desired learning outcome.

Flipped Classroom Activity: Graded (6)

In this activity, following study material is shared online which you have to study by your own and then some exercise will be conducted during lecture to assess your learning about the topic.

This activity is based on the topic ‘fMRI – Functional MRI’

First you should understand the basic difference between regular MRI and fMRI. For this, watch the video on following link:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=TCL6SwunTyg>

After understanding the basic difference between MRI and fMRI, watch the following link and study the concept of fMRI:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=BmQR57V5TVU>

To assess your learning from these videos, you have to attempt some questions in the lecture dated 17/3/2022. Do not miss the class. It is graded activity and has weight in IA.

Good luck !!!

City-based duo wins award for skills in mobile robotics

Making the country proud, city-based students Samarth Goudar (22) and Vibhor Meshram (19) have won the title Medallion of Excellence at the 44th edition of the WorldSkills Abu Dhabi 2017. The duo from the MIT Academy of Engineering, Pune was selected in June to represent the country under the skill of mobile robotics.

Even though their selection was confirmed in June by the National Skill Development Corporation (NSDC) under the Ministry of Skill Development and Entrepreneurship (MSDE), the duo had started preparing for the theme of Playground Monitoring Robot in January. While Vibhor, who hails from Wardha, is still in college in his final year of electronics, Samarth on the other hand had graduated two years back and would come to the academy after office hours for almost 10 months to work on the project.

At the competition, the robot that the youngsters made had to get children (billiard balls) back to parents (specific place allocated in the arena). They used myRIO for controlling the robots, where they would feed the programming and used DC motors and grippers as well. The students also used the studica kit in their robot and the rest of the parts were built and fabricated by them at the college.

Talking about his experience in Abu Dhabi, Samarth said, "As I interacted with the students from Russia and Korea, I realised that they are studying robotics from a young age, and even if they were 18, this was in their curriculum. They used very advanced technologies. For instance, they had used laser cutting machines which made their robot more and precise for the mechanical structure. Also, they use the Laboratory Virtual Instrument Engineering Workbench (LabVIEW), a programming language that is yet to be added in the Indian curriculum."

The team would set daily targets and every day would stay up till 3-4 am. "I would start working in the morning itself and was on it from the last nine months. When we were given the theme, it was mentioned that it can be changed by 30-100 per cent and we had to prepare accordingly," shared Vibhor.

Samarth Goudar (22) and Vibhor Meshram (19)

In mobile robotics, the Indian team scored higher than Singapore, Germany and Brazil competitors.

A total of 11 members representing India won prizes at the WorldSkills that concluded on October 18. These prizes were won in categories like patisserie and confectionery, prototype modelling, mechatronics, brick-laying, restaurant service, automobile technology, jewellery, graphic design technology, beauty therapy and car painting. Over 1,300 candidates participated from 59 countries.
