Importance of UHV FDP

The Universal Human Values (UHV) Faculty Development Program is a valuable initiative that empowers educators to achieve both professional excellence and personal growth. The program provides deeper insights into ethical living, right understanding, and the importance of harmony at four levels — self, family, society, and nature. It encourages faculty members to promote mutual happiness and prosperity through responsible behaviour, meaningful relationships, and value-based education. Through interactive discussions and reflective learning, participants gain practical approaches to create a positive and inclusive learning environment. By integrating Universal Human Values into academic practices, educators can inspire students toward holistic development and socially responsible living. Participating in the UHV FDP is therefore an important step toward becoming a more compassionate, balanced, and impactful educator in today's academic world.
